We like it, we love it, we want more of it!

Summer program highlights

In 1986 Swedish rock band, Europe, released The Final Countdown, a single that would not only change the face of movie montages forever, but that also became the Camp Wise 2014 theme song. In the song lyrics it poses the question, “Will things ever be the same again?” We’re not sure, but given how amazing the summer was…we hope so!

Summer 2014 at Camp Wise was the perfect storm. Everything was in its right place—and the Camp Wise campers and staff had a blast! Days were spent on the fields playing sports, high in the trees on the ropes course (and lily pads), screaming through the lake on water skis and tubes, broadcasting with Karl over the radio, and doing so many other amazing activities. When the sun went down you could find us hangin’ by the fire, roasting up s’mores, camping in the woods, having a late-night zipline run, or even sneaking into the kitchen! We had gaga in the village, costumes at lunch, and Shabbat-o-Grams to share the love with one another every week! From not dropping microphones, to Wise(ing) Up (or you’re going down), it turned out to be quite a summer!

Here are some village highlights:

Chalutzim

Chalutzim, you may be the youngest village, but that does not stop you from knowing exactly how to have a great time. From day trips to Pioneer Waterland, to the most fun free-swims in the whole camp, you were the village that really rocks! You got retro first session with “Super Mario Night,” and smart with “Night at the Museum.” You had a chance second session to celebrate Kenny’s 15th during “Kenny’s Quinceanera” and used your imagination during “Mythical Creatures Night.” You cheered each other on during all-camp talent shows (“she/ he’s in my cabin”), hung out with your buddies in Solel, and sang along during song sessions. It was a good year to be a Chalutzimer!

Ohalim

O-oh-baby-ha! Ohalim, you had an amazing summer this past year! From the cabins, to the moadone, to the hill, you found something to do everywhere. Cheering in the Chadar during meals, supporting each other in all-camp productions of The Wizard of Oz and Joseph, joining Moth Club, and cheering for the Americans when they won the 4th of July soccer game, you always knew what was going on, and how to be at the center of the action. First Session you got to lead your counselors around on a leash during “Dog Show,” and Second Session you got to taste an age-old “Oregon Mash” recipe during “Lumberjack Night.” Your trips to Wildwater Kingdom were always a blast, and there always seemed to be a prank happening in Ohalim. Music blasting, flaps-up, chillin’ by the fire-pit, its always good to be in Ohalim!

Noar

N-O-A-R that’s the village that you are. You are the oldest village at camp a lot of the time, and you knew how to show it! Cheering in the Chadar, singing the words to songs other campers haven’t learned yet, you were able to lead camp! That is, of course, except when you leave. This year you got to make the journey to Allegheny—flowing river or flat water, Grandpa Dave or Luke strumming the guitar, sunny skies or a “little” rain—you braved the wilds and came back to camp smiling! There was also that one time you went to Cedar Point! And of course how can we forget the first ever…Sadnat Noar! From Camp Wise Informational Videos, to a Saturday race, to a new hang out spot behind N-2, you guys paved the way for the future! Thanks Noar!

The Power of Choice

As adults, when we are given a choice of which task to complete first, it allows us to feel more committed to that choice. Both our attention span and our desire to complete that task are greater.

This same phenomenon occurs at camp. The opportunity for campers to make their own choices at camp offers them the opportunity to grow cognitively, emotionally, and socially. Campers become more committed to their own tasks and strive to be successful. When choices are available, within realistic limits, we are allowing campers a chance to practice and learn the skills of independence, responsibility, and problem solving. At camp we offer the support, time, and the influence of positive staff members to help them begin to master these skills. We firmly believe that the opportunity to make choices at camp helps campers develop a stronger sense of self. In Noar our campers want to have a say in determining their daily activities. By giving them choices within the Sadnat program or allowing them to participate in multiple choresh activities, we are allowing them to have power over their daily activities. If we give them these choices and they feel in control of their daily life, they won’t have the need to break rules or use that power to negatively impact the program and other campers. When we respect their opinions and choices, we find that the campers begin to respect others’ as well.

It’s important for campers to understand that the decisions they make during the summer can come with consequences. Some choices will benefit the camper, while others will be seen as mistakes. By having our staff members work through those choices with the campers they begin to see that even when they make a poor decision, they have the opportunity to understand it, rethink it, and make a different choice the next time. We see this happen a lot at night with our Solel campers. They tend to think that they have the ability to stay up late and don’t realize that it might affect their energy the next day. If you’ve ever seen the face of a Solel camper at breakfast then you know what I’m talking about.

With our younger campers in Chalutzim, we offer choice to help promote creativity and to encourage them to start thinking for themselves. This is most apparent in the bedtime routines that their cabins create. This is the time of the day that young campers often need to be reminded to brush their teeth, shower, and get into pyjamas. By allowing them to create their own rituals which could include telling stories of the day or singing songs, they have started down the path of independence at camp.

By offering choices to our campers we are allowing them to make meaningful choices within the walls of what is acceptable at camp. Our staff members still have the ability to limit choices in the best interest of our campers and can help them make a difficult choice. Campers are leaving Wise with necessary life skills that they can use at home and at school with their friends and family.

Solel

Solel, so what? So what if your leader looked like a Chalutzim camper—you still had an amazing time! First session you get to blow glass in Toledo, eat chocolate at Hershey Park, and paddle down the New River as country roads took you to West Virginia! Second session you took a trip to Niagara Falls, and went down to West Virginia for some mud, some rafting, and a whole lot of fun! Everyone spent some time chillin’ on the deck, fostering old friendships, and making new friendships that will last for years to come. You took full advantage of the opportunities you had this summer—and made the summer a memory that will last a lifetime.

Solel girls show off their patriotic spirit on July 4th.

Camp isn’t just for kids

All the fun and excitement of Camp Wise is not just for kids! In addition to the summer camp program at Camp Wise, we offer several programs to get everyone involved. For more information on any of the following programs or to register call (216) 593-6250.

Bring your whole Family along!

Many families came out this past summer for Camp Wise Family Camp 2014! It was the perfect way to spend time with the whole family... we even had a family that spanned three generations! Families had a chance to try camp activities like boating, zip line, archery, tower, giant swing, jet skiing, and tie dying. Some time was spent as a family, while other times CW staff hung out with the kids while parents had a chance to relax. With Shabbat, s’mores, and even a talent show there was truly something for everyone.

Camp is for everyone!

We believe that camp is something that everyone deserves to experience. With this mission in mind, Camp Wise is proud to offer Camp Chai, a taste of camp for adults with disabilities. Adults who require varied levels of support come to camp with a dedicated group of camp staff and experience all the fun activities and programs that camp has to offer. The group does arts and crafts, swimming, the climbing tower, lake activities, sports, camp fires, and so much more during their visit. It is a special experience for participants and staff alike.

Camp isn’t just for kids
“...take it home, and share it with a friend.”

The next “take it home” should be written by you! Give us a call at 216-559-6250 or send us an email to wisekids@mandeljcc.org to share stories!

Alumni of Camp Wise share something that goes beyond close quarters in the summer, and singing around square folding tables at meals. Although alumni’s time spent at camp may be distanced years apart, they are able to see their lives with the thread of a common experience. Camp Wise helps us inform ourselves of who we truly are long before we are cognitively or emotionally mature enough to be true to who we want to be. Years later we look back at our summers at camp and realize their profound impact on the people we have become. It is at that moment of reflection that we are able to express gratitude for the people who helped shape our lives, and thank the community that made us feel a part of something much larger than ourselves.

We hope to continue to share stories, written by Alumni new and old, who wish to express the impact of their summers at the home of happiness. We invite our community at large to share their stories with us (details below) to continue a tradition of intergenerational thanksgiving.

“Camp Artifacts…”

Megan Garrett is a Camp Wise staff member three years removed from her summers at camp. Megan was a camper, counselor, and Chalutzim Girls supervisor. Megan now works for the Indiana University Hoosiers basketball program throughout the year. Megan recently reconnected with Camp Wise when she helped reach out to the Indianapolis community. The following are some of her thoughts about camp.

After seven summers at Camp Wise, it’s easy to mesh it all into one happy, summer memory. When someone says “Camp Wise,” I see a blur of bright sunshine on the Ohalim rec field, songs and stories on benches in the Chadar, laughter in the cabins, and buffoonery in the staff lounge.

It’s my third year away from camp and at first glance it seems as though I have been left with only memories and t-shirts. Every Camp Wise staff accumulates a ton of “camp artifacts”—tie-dyes, bracelets, stickers, magnets, maybe even a crazy sponge Bob Maccabiah. A few weeks ago I met Jack, a staff member who had just completed his first summer at camp. We met up on our way to represent Camp Wise at an event at the Indy JCC. We realized we both had on our staff bracelets—small pieces of rope from the ropes course melted together around our wrists. Mine, a few years old, was just as vibrant and strong as his. The sturdy rope was a constant reminder for both of us of the lasting happiness that is camp. When he told me about his incredible summer, his co-counselors, and campers, I felt as if I was there walking through Chal’im with him.

After seven summers, I carry the ways Camp Wise has impacted me on my sleeve—literally and figuratively. I always thought the “Home of Happiness” meant being at camp, but when I remind myself of the little things camp has given me, it brings happiness into my home.

This past summer Camp Wise staff had many ways to recognize our staff’s accomplishments. They could submit a written “Valuiew Slips” (a slip of paper on which staff can recognize one another for exemplifying one of our six Jewish Core Values) to be read aloud at an all-staff meeting, they could enter another staff member into the “Fishtail” drawing—a raffle for staff who have done well in the eyes of their peers, where they can win prizes and get recognized in front of the whole camp, and finally they could nominate one another for Staff Scholarship. Staff Scholarship is the highest honor a Camp Wise staff member can receive. It stems from a nomination by any staff member, and five winners are selected by a committee of past winners. Money for the scholarship is raised through a Staff Auction. Staff Member Brian Bivayiel held after the kids have left on the last day of camp.

This year’s recipients were: David Sebo, Richard Rebak, Isaac Cadasky, Jake Simon, and Sophie Mennell. A sixth portion of the proceeds was donated to Camperships.

A born and bred Londoner, Richard Rebak is in his second year studying Visual Communication at the University of Bristol. Richard is currently a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. Even though baseball is not a regular activity at CW, Jake makes sure that we all get excited about our morning baseball sports updates. Jake loves participating in the “Wizard of Oz” and celebrating his second “Bar Mitzvah” in a Groovy style. Richard made a lifelong bond with the Bunion Brothers of Session II. Richard’s camp highlights included ‘starring’ as a munchkin alongside his campers in the All-Camp Production of “The Wizard of Oz” and celebrating his second “Bar Mitzvah” in a Groovy style. Richard made a lifelong bond with the Bunion Brothers of Session II.

Sophie Mennell returned for her second summer in 2014 to work at the self-proclaimed “coolest place at camp” — the lake! She comes from England and is completing her final year studying Physiotherapy at Manchester University. Sophie loves participating in Maccabi, in which she loves camp for the constant singing and cheering, and is always seen broadcasting a smile of friendliness no matter where she goes. Sophie is a role model to younger staff and a great friend to the campers in her cabin.

Jake Simon celebrated his ninth summer at the Home of Happiness in style as a judge for Outer Space Maccabiah! Jake is a sophomore at the Ohio State University where he studies communications and is a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. Even though baseball is not a regular activity at CW, Jake makes sure that we all get excited about our morning baseball sports updates. Jake loves playing sports and Eh, she’s in the middle of the village, but he will tell you that his favorite memories at camp simply involve hanging out with familiar faces and meeting new campers and staff. Camp Wise holds a special place in Isaac’s heart and he thinks his counselors for the way they shaped him into a respectful, confident, and friendly young adult.

The Alumni group assembled Sunday morning outside the Chadar. It’s dark—yet the senses are full. Eyes are fixated on familiar faces illuminated by the flicker of the campfire, the moon, the stars, and the quietly buzzing light way over across the road on the way to the Chadar. The scent of burning pine is thick and strong with memory. The sounds fluctuate from mellow—the gentle picking of a guitar or mandolin, a whisper of a close friend—to intense: the roar of a song session, the mandolin, a whisper of a close friend—to the road on the way to the Chadar. The weekend began with introductions, and quickly followed the sound of the guitar down to the Chapel for Camp Wise Friday night Shabbat services. After a Friday night dinner Alumni from different generations led one another in new renditions of Spirit Circle classics. The whole crowd moved out to the Chalutzim fire pit and proceeded to sing songs, shoot the breeze, and enjoy each other’s company until the late hours of the morning. It was like a “best-of” combination of camp—the carelessness of being a camper, the freedom of being a staff member, the life-long bonds of being Alumni. All of the fun, none of the boundaries.

This past Labor Day weekend 45 Alumni gathered at Camp Wise for the First Annual Camp Wise Alumni Camp. From Friday afternoon, until Sunday morning Alumni exchanged the hustle and concerns of their day-to-day lives for the unencumbered joy and freedom that is found at Camp. Generations from the ’70s through the ’80s were represented for the weekend, and an even wider array of ex-campers and staff showed up for an Open House on Sunday morning. Even past Camp Director Jon Rubenstein and his daughter stopped by to say hello!

The next morning started off with a floating breakfast, and launched into a variety of morning activities. Many headed to the ropes course to zip down the zipline. Others made their way to the lake to canoe, kayak, and SUPboard. Some headed to the Art Shack for a morning of crafts and tie-dye. At lunch it was time for Toasted Cheese (a Camp Wise classic), and of course a Saturday Pop Wave! The afternoon kept it mellow with lots of time by the pool, a game of Ultimate Frisbee, and plenty of Euchre. Dinner and a quick “Great Race” wound down into a candle lit Havdallah by the campfires—and a second night of the perfect campfire.

Labor Day weekend’s First Annual Alumni Camp was the start of tradition that many will hold as sacred for years to come. It was an incredible success, and it only has the potential to grow sweeter as the tradition progresses. It’s a yearly ritual that can bring you back to simpler times and help renew your present spirit. So make sure to plan your Alumni Labor Day weekend (Friday-Sunday) open in 2015, and get ready to return to your “Home of Happiness.” That is, of course, if you graduated high school before the year of 2010—and if not, keep counting down the years, because your time is soon to come down.

A very special “Todah Rabah” to all of our most recent Camp Wise donors!

We are honored to recognize the families, individuals and groups who have chosen to make thoughtful and generous contributions to Camp Wise. Please let us know if your name was inadvertently left off of this list.

Fall 2014 | Camp Wise News
If summer can't come soon enough, come join us for...

This year we've decided to open our famous winter camps to EVERYONE! This is the perfect time to invite friends who have never been to camp before, and let them see what the “Camp Wise Magic" is really about!

The Fifth Annual: Ohalim Winter Wonderland!

All current 5th and 6th graders are invited to take a magical trip to camp this winter! If you have never spent a summer at camp or if you come back to camp every year this is the perfect time to check out this special place for two days of winter fun. Come enjoy awesome snow activities like sledding, snowman building, and winter obstacle courses. We even have gaga and battle ball in the snow! And when we get cold we’ll head inside to hang by the fire in the Chadar, enjoy some awesome meals, and spend a warm and cozy night at camp! All of our buildings are heated, and we are ready to have an action-packed two-day wonderland! Can't wait to see you there!

Sunday, January 18, 11:30 am to Monday, January 19, 5 pm
Cost: $95.00
Busses leave from the Mandel JCC.
Visit CampWise.org or call (216) 593-6250 for more details.

The third annual: A Mid-Winter's Noar Dream

All current 7th and 8th Graders are invited to join us for a night at camp and a day on the slopes tubing! It makes no difference if you have never spent a summer at camp, or if camp is your second home—this is the perfect President's day weekend event for you! We’ll head out to camp; enjoy dinner, some fun and games, and late-night hang outs! The next morning we’ll sleep-in, grab some brunch and then head to one of our local ski hills for an afternoon filled with tubing, laughing, and outdoor fun! The rare opportunity for Ohalim campers to enjoy Camp Wise in the snow

A Mid-Milestone Summer

The last night of each session, on CW night, we recognize staff and campers who have been at camp for 5, 7, 10 and 13 years. Five years are recognized with a 5-year bag, 7 years earn you a cool 7-year shirt, after 10 years you receive a sacred Camp Wise Crazy Creek Chair, and 13-year staff are honored with a giant CW sweatshirt blanket. Mazel tov to our 2014 10 and 13 year campers and staff.

We love our CW volunteers

Todah rabah to our wonderful camp families who donate their time to camp each summer. Our volunteer doctors helped to keep camp healthy and happy, and our host families showed our international staff warm Cleveland hospitality on their days off. If either of these opportunities sounds like something you’d like to try in 2015, please let us know!
